A bill of interest to the sportsmen of the State of Mississippi passed the House last week involving an appropriation to the fish and game commission. This was in the nature of an emergency appropriation, as they were running out of funds and it was necessary to make this appropriation in order to charge all of our game wardens now employed by the commission. The previous appropriations were taken from a fund which was set aside from the amount paid by the sportsmen of Mississippi in the form of licensing and fishing licenses. Up to this time that amount was set aside as a reserve fund and in this instance had to be used in order to allow the game and fish commission to carry on its duties until June 30th. The bill also provided for a more efficient management of the funds of the game and fish commission and placed these funds under the control of the State Auditor, which has not been the case previous to the enactment of this bill.

The House also passed a bill which was not so timely related the picture business, the appropriation of the Bureau of Fish and Game fund. It was here that the picture business was discussed and the representative gave the following explanation: "The picture business is a very important one and it is necessary to have a fund set aside for the purpose of maintaining the picture business and for the purpose of maintaining the picture business." The bill was passed by a vote of 100 to 0.

Southern Bell Executive Tells of Big Rural Projects Planned or Underway

JACKSON—Rural telephone expansion reached an all-time high in Mississippi last year, and 1952 will probably be another banner year for rural telephones in the state if the necessary materials are obtainable to carry out the present plans of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company for improvement and extension of rural service in Mississippi.

"As we enter the new year," says T. E. Harris, Mississippi Manager for Southern Bell, "we are engaged in one phase of another of rural telephone improvement in 50 counties of our state. These projects—some under construction, some being staked out and others still being engineered—pretty well blanket the state.

Amite Counties; a big project to serve rural communities by 20 telephone projects for the rural areas of Lowndes County to be connected to the Columbus exchange.

Several types of construction will be employed to serve these projects, according to Mr. Harris. Open wire will serve the smaller communities; large projects will require wire-in-cables; and other areas will be served by rural dial switching units. Thirteen such units have been installed in the state, starting with the one at Sturgis which was placed in service in December, 1949.

"A summary of our plans," Mr. Harris concluded, "shows that rural projects now being engineered or actually under construction in Mississippi call for an expenditure of several million dollars. When they are completed they will supply rural Mississippians with approximately 5,000 new telephones."

A MAN NAMED LINCOLN

Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday anniversary the people observe this week, is perhaps more typical of the American hero than any other. Born in a log cabin and beginning his life as a farm laborer, the lanky American nevertheless became one of the world's greatest champions of freedom and liberty.

Contrary to the belief of many, Lincoln was an outstanding man in his community long before being elected President. His nomination by the Republican Party in 1860, instead of being the selection of a comparative unknown, capped a brilliant career, which had begun when Lincoln was chosen "captain" of a company of volunteers in the Black Hawk Indian War.

When he returned from the campaign, he became a partner in a general store and was also postmaster and a deputy surveyor. He was elected to the State Legislature of Illinois when he was twenty-five years old. He opened a law office when he was thirty, having been licensed only two years before. He was elected to Congress in 1846, when he was only thirty-seven years old. Three times he was a Presidential elector in Illinois and, in 1858, he was nominated for the US Senate by the Republicans to run against Stephen A. Douglas, the Democratic Candidate. His series of speeches in this campaign lifted him into the national consciousness.

In February, 1860, he made an address in Cooper Union, New York, which speech was to play a large part in his nomination for the Presidency at the Convention at Chicago, in 1860. He was elected President in 1860 and in 1864, but was shot down brutally in Ford's Theatre, in Washington, in 1865.

His patience, gentle manner and far-reaching vision enabled him to guide the country through the disastrous war of 1861-65. Though soft-spoken, Lincoln was nevertheless unmovable on matters of principle, never wavered in his courageous efforts to hold the Union together.

In the end, he not only succeeded, but succeeded with the admiration of all sections of the country and world, and his death brought genuine sorrow, not only in the North but in the South, which would have fared far better in the reconstruction days to come had Lincoln survived.

As a national figure, no one, with the exception of George Washington, has been able to equal his fame and hold on the hearts of the American public. No finer tribute can be paid to his memory than is being paid each day at the Lincoln Memorial in Washington, D. C.—where humble visitors, at all hours of the day and night, silently read his immortal words on the freedom and dignity of man.

Special caution was urged by the State Council official for loose stock on "some of the highway of the State." And at the same time, Gov. Warren farmers to "be especially watchful of their livestock and keep them off the highways." He said, "the farmer stands to lose a lot of money when one of his herd is killed, someone stands to lose their life and the farmer would be guilty of both."

At the same time, A. S. Windham, Executive Director of the Council, listed "speed and drunken driving as the two worst forms of rudeness on the highway; carelessness and haphazardness as the two worst forms of discourtesy in the homes; and driving half-bent on wet slippery streets or stepping from curb-stones in inclement weather as two of the worst disregards for pedestrian safety."

The officials further pointed out that unless strong steps are taken, the history of highway deaths on Mississippi highways will be repeating itself again this year. "That is why emphasis is being placed on attacking this toll right where it begins," they declared.

Windham cautioned drivers to "look out for the other driver; he may not be looking out for you." He especially watchful for livestock on the highways. Do not expect the other fellow to observe the rules of safety, for he may not care whose life he takes!

"The best way to drive along safely is to act and think as though you are the only driver who is observing all the rules," explained Windham. He said, minding your motor manners and driving defensively are the best ways of preventing accidents of any type or form.

Extreme caution, courtesy and defensive driving are being stressed as part of a program of traffic safety education being conducted by the Safety Council, in cooperation with the National Safety Council, the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol, Civic and Professional groups.

President, Mrs. Joe Kern, Vice President, Mrs. L. E. Elliott, Secretary, Mrs. Doris Carol, Treasurer, Mrs. E. Orta, Publicity, Mrs. John Demetrius, and Parliamentarian, Mrs. George Stevenson.

These officers met at Hotel Road Wednesday, January 30. At this time a list of names was submitted for chairman of the various committees. The club, which has the endorsement of the Chamber of Commerce, met again Wednesday evening, February 6, when officers and committee chairmen examined the proposed constitution. By R. G. (MANNY) HUBBARD
Supervisor, Beat 5

Last month in my article I advised about the excessive levy of 11 1/2 mills in the Road and Bridge Fund. Many people did not understand it thoroughly, so I will go into further detail.

For several years in Beat 5, of every dollar the county collected you really owed 75c. For example, if you taxes were $20 (Beat 5 County Tax) you paid about $5 too much. According to State Laws, you have been paying more taxes than you owe.

I paid my taxes under protest, and have it so written on the face of my tax receipt. You will hear more of this at a later date. I understand that many people were discouraged and misinformed about paying their taxes under protest. All those who do pay their taxes under protest will be in a position to get it back when the State Auditor is called on to make a refund.

At the meeting on Wednesday, February 6, the Board accepted all bids on materials—high, low and medium. This is not my idea of running your county business correctly, so I voted "NO." The law says the lowest and best bid should be accepted by the Board. The other members claim that an emergency exists, which I do not think is so, because metal or concrete culverts, auto tires and accessories, grader blades and just about everything the county needs can be purchased without any trouble—even WOOD PRESERVATIVE.

The majority of the people in Beat 5 elected me to represent them as Supervisor. It has always been a custom for each supervisor to hire the men to work in his District. I have already hired one foreman and three laborers to work on the seawall in my District. At Wednesday's meeting the other members of the Board informed me that I had to make room for another foreman at about $1800 per year. I believe it is a waste of the taxpayers' money to make jobs to pay off political obligations.

I am anxious to raise the wages of the laborers in the county to 75c per hour, but have been voted down by the majority of the Board, which agrees that 40c per hour is enough. I made a motion for 75c per hour, but receiving no second the motion was lost. Each month I intend to make the motion until the laborers receive a fair and just wage. I'm sure the Supervisors would be the first to holler if they received only $3.20 per day.

I have been informed that the Board would like to make a revision of the tax set-up in the county, such as lowering the millage and raising the assessment. I would like the Board to discuss this matter across the table, but so far cannot get any concrete picture of the plan. I strongly urge the voters to come forth and have an understanding with all members of the Board as to what they plan to do. Remember, "It's the best to close the back door after the horse is out."

BROWNIES HAVE MEET; GREENIES SURPRISE THE YELLOWS
By Peggy June Namer

Wednesday, January 30 at 3:30 p.m. the Brownies had a meeting and Feb. 6 the Greenies gave the Yellows a surprise. They ate cookies and looked at a movie, which was a comedy picture.

Mrs. John E. Morrill, the leader, read a story about Brownies. Games were played in the open. The troop has been divided into three parts: the 7-year-olds are the Cedars; the 8-year-olds are the Pines; and the 9-year-olds are the Oaks.

Gloria Kimmell and Martha Allison are leaders of the Greenies and Yellows.

At the close of all meetings the Brownie Promise is given, the Friendship Circle is formed and everyone says "Goodbye, Brownies."

New members attending the meeting were Elizabeth Ramey, Patricia Ann Culley, Martha Carr, Mary Ann Fehman, Patricia Blanchard, Delta Jacob, Margaret Moreau, Eva Krenner, Marie Rauch and Penny Sue Weber.

The Red Cross will soon be making its annual appeal to the people of the nation. This reverses the usual procedure—the people always call on the Red Cross.

As soon as possible scout leaders will be appointed and various committees will be selected.
